

Alexis Artwohl, Ph.D.

Tucson, Arizona 85739

Website: www.alexisartwohl.com

BIO

Alexis Artwohl, Ph.D. (www.alexisartwohl.com) is an internationally recognized behavioral science consultant to law enforcement as a trainer, researcher, and author. She is an advisory board member to the Force Science Research Center (www.forcescience.org) and the International Law Enforcement Educators and Trainers Association (www.ileeta.org), and a Certified Trainer with the Western Community Policing Institute (www.westernrcpi.com).

Her areas of training include: achieving peak performance in high stress situations, preparing to survive deadly force encounters, and investigating officer-involved shootings.

Dr. Artwohl is co-author of the book DEADLY FORCE ENCOUNTERS.

During her 16 years as a private practice clinical and police psychologist, she provided traumatic incident debriefings and psychotherapy to numerous public safety personnel and their family members along with consultation to multiple agencies throughout the Pacific Northwest. Her husband, retired Asst. Chief David S. Butzer, is an international policing consultant with missions to Kosovo, Jordan, Iraq, and Afghanistan.